DC Approves Slope Area Condominiums —Split Vote

A divided Daly City Council voted 3-2 Monday to approve an 80-unit condominium development on a steep slope area of Gellert Boulevard.

Voting against certifying the environmental impact report and approving the tentative subdivision map for the Cypress Point condominium project were Mayor pro tem William Schumacher and Councilman Anthony Giammona.

"My concern is the apparent instability of the slope," Schumacher said of the project to be developed by the Innisfree Companies of Sausalito. "Innisfree should guarantee the slope for 20 years."

Both Schumacher and Giammona stressed that they are concerned that the cost of possible future erosion and slides of the 8.7-acre area would be borne by the homeowner.

The council earlier had expressed doubt on construction of the $100,000 to $120,000 condominiums; fearing that the city would be liable in case of future mishaps.

The steep slope site, clearly visible from Interstate 280, caused some mud and damage to the Alto Serramonte commercial center a year ago when it eroded after heavy rains.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky said future damage if the property were developed probably would be the liability of the condominium property owners' association; not the city.

Giammona questioned whether the city should encourage a project on land that has caused problems in the past.

William Jones, a soils engineer for the Innisfree Companies told the council that deep borings of the property showed "more strength in the soil than all of the stresses acting in the worst possible set of circumstances."

Wayne Eggleston, a representative of University Property Management, which owns the commercial area below the proposed development, said the two companies had reached agreement on stabilizing the site during development.

Two members of the Serramonte Homeowners Association expressed some concerns about the project.

Susan Sweeny association president, said she hoped the city would prohibit recreational vehicles from being parked on city streets.

Roseann Emerson questioned whether the condominium buyer will be "rooked if the homes don't slide, but just move a little."

MANY PEOPLE STILL SURPRISED (Dave Dornias photos)

Daly City's first female police officer, Pamela Hiar, says she's more interested in doing her job well more than breaking new ground for women.

Rowe, Daly City Like Each Other

David R. Rowe

Not too long ago an obviously inebriated Daly City resident lurched forward at a Daly City City Council meeting and began haranguing the council and [illegible] matters great and small.

The man's condition immediately became apparent as his arguments became more incoherent. There was a ripple of laughter in the council chambers and even the councilmen were grinning broadly.

The only serious face in the room was that of City Manager David R. Rowe. Rowe considered each of the citizen's arguments and answered him politely and at length.

The incident was a brief illustration of how Rowe has kept one of the most difficult jobs in San Mateo County for nine years.

He takes people seriously and works painstakingly at being city manager of the county's second largest city.

Rowe was considered somewhat of a boy wonder when he took the reins of Daly City government at age 30.

At 39, he still looks boyish with horn-rimmed glasses and curly hair and most say the mantle of authority has worn well.

For a city manager, Rowe is well-respected and probably even liked by many Daly City residents. Criticism of city government in Daly City usually takes the form of swipes at councilmen and potshots at the city attorney.

Rowe is rarely mentioned critically by name, though most believe he's a strong administrator with a higher degree of control than most city managers.

Why do some city managers stay in a city and please council majorities, while others practically are tarred, feathered and driven out of town?

Rowe, who concedes that "nine years is a long time in San Mateo County," said in a recent interview that "success is what you put into it."

The city manager said that the primary thing he keeps in mind is that "City Council is running the show, making the decisions."

"The manager has to be responsive, to be available

Acquittal in DC

A jury Monday acquitted Basilio S. Tan Jr. of murder, accepting his version of self-defense in the slaying of his brother-in-law, Alexander Balleza, 24, at Tan's Daly City home.

The jury of 11 women and one man returned the verdict to Judge Edward W. Pliska in San Mateo County Superior Court in Redwood City.

The jurors had deliberated for nearly two days after a four-day trial.

Tan, represented by attorney Steven Grier of Burlingame, is a transcriber for an insurance company.

He was arrested after the June 23 slaying of Balleza.

Tan, 22, and Balleza had had a long-standing dispute, according to police. They had married sisters.

Balleza's widow, Jasmine Balleza, was a defense witness at the trial. She testified to prior acts of violence toward her by her late husband.

According to prosecutor John P. Oakes, the woman also testified that her husband was angry with Tan.

County Schools Position

Ribera Announces

Ernest J. Ribera, who announced his candidacy for the office of San Mateo County School Superintendent Monday, said the organizational structure of the superintendent's office "can be made more efficient to provide better information, communication and support to all 24 school districts."

Ribera, assistant superintendent for education for the Jefferson Union High School District, said the county office "is presently doing an effective job in areas of special education, services and business affairs."

The candidate for the office now held by J. Russell Kent said he already is "working closely" with the county office in his position with the JUHSD.

Ribera is the second candidate to announce he will seek election to the county post in June.

Anthony A. Giammona, a Daly City councilman and Westmoor High School coach and physical education teacher, also will run for the office.

Kent, the county's longtime superintendent, is retiring.

"My 29 years in education with the Jefferson Union High School District includes 11 years as a school administrator, and 10 years as a district administrator," the 55-year-old Ribera said at a Monday press conference.

Female Police Officer 'Just Trying to be Myself' in DC

By NANCY STANCILL

The face is that of a pretty young woman. Perky brown hair. Hazel eyes lightly rimmed with mascara.

Then, one notices the stiff black pants and shirt, the gun in its holster, the shiny badge. Pamela A. Hiar is obviously a Daly City police officer.

Miss Hiar has been Daly City's first female police officer for 10 months, but she said her appearance still surprises many people.

"Children figure out what to call me right away," Officer Hiar laughs. "They say, 'It's the police lady'."

"But adults get all tongue-tied and ask if they should call me policeman or policewoman," she said. "I tell them to refer to me as a police officer."

There are other female police officers in San Mateo County, but they are still few and far between. So Miss Hiar probably will get a few shocked looks for a while yet.

Officer Hiar takes it in stride. A poised woman of 24, she said she's more interested in doing her job capably than possibly breaking new ground for women.

She said she became interested in law as a teenager, but did not realize until three years ago that what she wanted was a career in law enforcement.

She related that she came to the Bay Area from her home town of Crystal, Minn., three years ago to continue her two years of college education.

But she ran short of money and found herself working as a dispatcher for a police department in the East Bay. She became enthralled with police work and applied for a year's stint as a police trainee with the Newark Police Department.

When that program ran out, she began hunting for a permanent position. Daly City's Police Department was the first to offer her a job.

She was hired in February and went to a police academy for two months. For the last four months, she has been on patrol by herself.

"I enjoy it," she said with enthusiasm. "It's difficult all the time. You're switched around all the time and you meet all types of people."

So far, Officer Hiar has patrolled the Top of the Hill and the Westlake areas, on daytime and swing shifts.

She said most comments about being a woman in a patrol job have been favorable, with an occasional taunt by a smart-mouthed teen-ager.

Most of the time, particularly at night, people think it's another man behind the uniform. When she calls out in a strong female voice for someone to "freeze", she said the reaction is one of shocked obedience.

She said she hasn't had trouble with people obeying her commands, but she can't stop them from apologizing when they curse in front of a woman.

"They're kind of cute," she said, "They'll say,

Teachers in Student Assault Cases

Clash Over Role at Hearings

Jefferson Union High School District's Board of Trustees and the American Federation of Teachers have locked horns over teacher roles in board hearings concerning student assault cases.

Marcy Ballard, president of Local 1481 of the AFT, has criticized recent board actions in dealing with instances where students allegedly have assaulted teachers.

A letter from Mrs. Ballard to union members raps the board for requesting teachers to appear at an "adversary hearing" in which the student and teacher might give conflicting testimony concerning an assault.

The union president said her concerns center on the board's new policy requiring that teachers speak for themselves, rather than allow Mrs. Ballard or other AFT officials to represent the teacher in the matter.

Mrs. Ballard pointed out in the letter that several weeks ago the board expressed concern when she accompanied two teachers, at their request, into a closed session. The two teachers had reported a student assault of a teacher.

Mrs. Ballard said at that time that Board Chairman Jane Powell had stated that as a matter of policy, the board did not want teachers appearing at the sessions.

Mrs. Ballard said she agreed and expressed surprise when two weeks later, a teacher was asked to be present at another closed hearing in an assault case.

"The teacher informs me he was never told that he had a right to choose not to go or that if he chose to go he had the right to representation," Mrs. Ballard contended.

However, District Superintendent Floyd Gonella said the teacher in question was told by his principal that "he could bring along an observer."

Gonella said the teacher did not show up, that the Dec. 6 hearing was attended only by the student and the student's parents.

He said such hearings, in which the student and teacher have conflicting stories, are becoming more common, although generally student assaults are handled on a school level by recommendation of expulsion.

Gonella said the district is "developing procedures to handle hearings of cases."

The superintendent said a closed board hearing on a

'Excuse me, ma'am, but I have to say this.' Then they cuss."

Unlike many rookie cops, Officer Hiar did not flinch from her first autopsy.

"I found it really interesting," she said. She watched a coroner perform an autopsy on a corpse during her first months on the job.

Not as easy to take, however, is the constant stream of human suffering she sees as a police officer.

"I don't like seeing people in pain," she said. "Things that involve people dying are very sad for the relatives you deal with. I don't like seeing people broke with nowhere to go, either."

Officer Hiar was credited recently with saving a person's life. She located a heart patient, after someone had sent an ambulance to the wrong address. She was commended officially by Police Chief David Hansen.

At 5 feet, seven inches and 150 pounds, Miss Hiar holds her own in running, weight lifting, boxing and other physical fitness training demands placed on all police officers.

"I lost one foot race and won the other one," she said.

Miss Hiar groans, however, at the difficulty of carrying around 33 pounds of equipment when she runs.

"You feel like someone is holding you back," she said of her heavy uniform, including a bullet-proof vest.

"I was surprised when I heard my mother tell someone on the phone that if she were my age, she would be doing the same thing," she said.

Miss Hiar is single and lives in the East Bay, but plans to move to the North County soon.

She said the other Daly City officers treat her well, despite some good-natured teasing.

"The department has gone out of its way not to put any pressure on me that would show I'm different from the others," she said.

"I know eyes are upon me because I'm a woman, but I'm just trying to be myself."

Rowe

to all of them, whether the council members are in the majority or minority," he reflected.

Rowe has worked with 14 different councilmen since he's been city manager.

Tony Giammona, a 10-year councilman who's worked with Rowe the longest, says simply, "He's the best city manager in San Mateo County. Lots of cities would like to have him."

A native of Oakland, he had worked in San Leandro for a year as an administrative aide since his graduation from University of California at Berkeley.

Rowe was offered a position as administrative assistant to Daly City's city manager and he accepted. After a few years he became the assistant city manager. In 1969, he succeeded City Manager Ed Frank, who retired.

While working on a degree in business administration at Berkeley, he served part-time as a recreation assistant in San Rafael. His interest was sparked by municipal work.

When Rowe became Daly City's city manager, he threw himself into the work with a thoroughness that continues today.

He said he averages 60 hours of work each week, with night meetings "ranging from one or two a week to four or five."

Rowe said he doesn't take work home to Burlingame, because it's almost impossible to work with three young children around. He and his wife moved to Burlingame three years ago, after residing in Daly City for 12 years.

"I work, shop and eat in Daly City and I sleep in Burlingame," he said. "I spend a lot more time here than at home."

Rowe spoke as he drove a reporter around the city, pointing out fire stations, tot lots and new developments. He was clearly enthusiastic about what he saw.

But the city manager refuses to take any credit for any progress the city has made in nine years of his leadership.

"I can take pride in the Serramonte fire station and library," he said, pointing out the facilities. "But the ideas were from other people. My efforts are a necessary ingredient, but they are not more important than others' efforts.

"I can take pride that redevelopment has started, but it was pushed by two council members," he continued.

Rowe's characteristic modesty, which shows up in discreet memorandums which start out "It is understood . . ." instead of "I know . . .", probably has a lot to do with his success.

He doesn't hesitate to answer criticism directed at city staff, however.

He gets exasperated at critics from the old Daly City area who charge that the area has been the forgotten part of the city, with the newer areas like Westlake and Serramonte getting the lion's share of capital improvements.

Rowe pointed out recently that "Typically more money is spent east of Junipero Serra Boulevard. To do anything in an already developed area is more expensive."

He also noted that many capital improvements in the newer area were made possible through donations of land from developers.

Rowe also worries that critics who say the city isn't moving fast enough on such programs as rehabilitation are the same people who come to budget hearings and say "Why do you need those staff people?" "

The city manager often meets with community leaders who occasionally "come in and pound on my desk."

But he said he welcomes questioning of city programs because "On many issues, there's not clearly a right or wrong. The right answer is just over the middle."

However, he added that he can't relate well to "people who are always, eternally negative. They don't contribute much to the process."

Do things ever run smoothly?

"No, there are always problems," he said with resignation. "There are always policy questions. Can I go on vacation and have things run well? Yes, I can and they do. There are a lot of staff people who are capable of acting as city manager."

Rowe said he has no fixed plans to stay or move from the Daly City position.

Teachers

student assault matter is different than a formal hearing where a teacher would be accused of wrongdoing.

In a case where a teacher was being charged, the teacher would have the right of representation by an attorney or a union representative, he said.

But Gonella argued that in the case of a student's hearing, the teacher can be required to give "direct testimony, not second or third or fourth hand information."

Gonella said the district stand is supported by a recent ruling from the San Mateo County District Attorney's Office, which he said confirmed the board's prerogative to request that a teacher appear before it.

Mrs. Ballard, however, said in her letter to union members that the teacher's contractual responsibilities are fulfilled by "reporting the incident and meeting with the parent, counselor and student at a school level conference called by the principal."

She said school management officials should "negotiate a meaningful student discipline policy with some teeth in it" before it requires further involvement from teachers.

Flap Brews Over Bullfight

By BILL HURSCHMANN

Despite objections from the Humane Society, a bloodless bullfight, sponsored by a Portuguese church, will be staged as scheduled at the Cow Palace in Daly City on Dec. 17.

The bullfight, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m., will feature six matches. It is being sponsored by the Sacramento Diocese of the St. Elizabeth National Church.

A complaint hoping to stop the bloodless bullfight had been filed with San Mateo County District Attorney Keith Sorenson by the American Humane Association, based in Inglewood, Colo.

The complaint alleged that a bullfight "torments animals and subjects them to undue stress and aggravation," according to Milton G. Seale, executive director of the association.

Richard Ward, executive director of the Peninsula Humane Society, said today his organization "objects to anything like this, not only bloodless bullfights. It is one more event that exploits animals.

"It seems to me that more and more events are taking place recently that have, as the final result, the using of animals as a means of fund-raising or entertainment or amusement. Our concern is to protect the animals and protect their rights."

Along with this, Ward said the Humane Society also objects to such events as rodeos, donkey basketball games and turkey races.

The state Penal Code makes bullfighting in California illegal. However, Section 597M condones the sport if it is held in conjunction with a religious event.

According to Monsignor Val Fagundes of the Sacramento-based Portugese church, the bullfighting is part of the annual Feast of Our Lady of Fatima celebration. The fe e has been held annually in the 1,000-member Sacramento parish since 1947, and generally is held on the Sunday nearest to both May 13 and Oct. 13.

However, Monsignor Fagundes said, the Cow Palace, which has the facilities for such a sport, was unavailable in mid-October. He said the Cow Palace is the only Northern California facility which can accommodate the sport.

A similar bloodless bullfighting event has been staged in Merced County for the past 40 or 50 years, said Monsignor Fagundes. The last time such an event was held at the Cow Palace was 1953.

"This does not torment the animals at all," the pastor said. "It is just to show the command intelligent men can have over the wild beast. In my opinion, it is a lot better than the circus, where lions and tigers are whipped. In this sport, all the bullfighter has to defend himself with is a cape."

How Zero-Based Budgeting Will Be Used in SM County

By RICK SULLIVAN

San Mateo County is entering a new era of money management that promises sweeping, radical changes in local government spending policies and stimulated debate on the future of a great many county programs and services.

This year San Mateo will become the only county in the state and among only a few in the nation to adopt a novel approach to budgeting pioneered several years ago in the State of Georgia under now-President Jimmy Carter.

The approach is referred to as zero-based budgeting.

Lauded as the most modern method of controlling runaway government spending — and initiated with mild success in the private sector — zero-based budgeting will be guided by this county's own new chief executive David Nichols.

In a major address to the Board of Supervisors Thursday, Nichols and his assistant, Joseph Geller, outlined the complex budgeting procedure.

Essentially, the new budgeting approach brings under close scrutiny every program and service offered in San Mateo County. This analysis will produce for the Board of Supervisors information to gauge the value of programs and services — some of which have gone unreviewed for years — and alternative methods of managing county offerings at a cost less than the present.

In past years detailed examination of county programs were made randomly, at best.

Decisions on presented alternatives are not likely to come easy for the supervisors. The alternatives in many cases are expected to be controversial, and special-interest groups are anticipated to stimulate debate.

Nichols and the board members are aware of the hard work ahead but have stated they are resolved to meet squarely the challenge of reducing government spending.

"In the past few years the pressure of the increasing limitations on the ability of county fiscal resources to meet all the perceived needs and the growing complexity of county government operations has reduced the effectiveness of the existing (government) process," Nichols told the board Thursday.

The county manager said that traditional methods of budgeting have allowed only limited scrutiny of county spending, and as a result, once established, programs and services are generally immune to any form of regular review.

The height of frustration of dealing with a traditional budget was reached during a series of study sessions last summer. Supervisors, who were under the gun to reduce the property tax take, found great difficulty in ferreting out of an inch-thick budget document areas that could be trimmed.

Traditional budgeting methods of taking existing operating costs and adding in adjustments for salaries and overhead, then including new expenditure program requests without thorough review, is gone now.

Over a four-year period beginning in January, supervisors will examine in depth every county program and service to determine if they should continue to be managed the way they are now, altered slightly or drastically, or phased out altogether..

The process is referred to as "alternative analysis."

This January the supervisors are scheduled to take four full days to evaluate 39 of the most important programs in the county, including the library system and boarding homes and institutions.

The term zero-based budgeting was adopted to reflect the detailed examination of long-standing programs as if they had never been offered before.

Decisions made by the supervisors in January will be incorporated next fiscal year in the proposed budget offered by the county manager.

Programs and services not examined this year but scheduled for scrutiny in the years ahead will be budgeted at about 80 per cent of their existing levels.

Supervisor Edward Bacciocco, a longtime advocate of the new budgeting approach, hailed the procedure as providing a "redefinition of the purpose of government," and allowing the people to gain a greater understanding of how decisions that affect them are made.

Nichols said he has been warned by officials in both the private and government sector that zero-based budgeting will not work in San Mateo County.

"I don't believe that," said Nichols. "I think it can work here, because I think the concept is sound."

Nichols said he has received "great" response from the county department heads in planning for the budgeting change.

Howard Oliphant, of the Governmental Research Council, a frequent critic of government spending, hailed the new budgeting method. He said it is refreshing that programs, which once established seem to go on and on forever, will be routinely examined in depth.

In a report to the board, Nichols said he believes there is no budgeting system that will eliminate the tight financial climate the county currently is facing.

However, he added, "I do believe the proposed budgeting system offers us a significant opportunity to increase our ability to make tough planning and budgeting decisions and to expand our ability to manage. I believe we can gain control over the direction of each of the county activities and develop better ways to meet the increasing service demands of the public."

Candlestick Point Hearing at Bayshore

Four public workshops on development of Candlestick Point State Recreation Area have been scheduled for early in January.

Landscape architects from the Department of Parks and Recreaiont will listen, record and discuss issues, needs, concerns and desires of the people of the Bay Area at the four meetings.

One workshop will be Jan. 9 from 7:30 to 9:30 at Bayshore Elementary School, 155 Oriente, Daly City.

After the January series of neighborhood community meetings, planners will return to Sacramento to develop broad alternatives for development of Candlestick Point State Recreation Area.

A second series of meetings will be announced later for public evaluation of the broad alternatives, and based on this feedback a single plan will be developed for public consideration and submission to the State Parks and Recreation Commission for review and approval.

Candlestick Point State Recreation Area will be developed on about 100 acres of bay frontage in San Francisco, just north of San Mateo County in the Candlestick Point stadium area. The General Development Plan for the Recreation Area is slated for completion in April 1978. It will be California's first urban state recreation area.

More information about the January meetings may be obtained from Carlos Espinosa or Judy Chan, Department of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento 95811, or by calling (916) 322-7564.

Anti-Crime League Notes Big Drop in Burglaries

Residential burglaries dropped 31 percent when a 22-week period in 1976 was compared with the same period in 1977 in the areas covered by the Anti-Crime League of Daly City, according to league Vice-President Conrad Pavellas.

Pavellas said burglaries went down 11 in the Crocker tract, 14 in one district of Original Daly City and 5 in another police patrol area of the Original Daly City tract.

Burglaries in the three areas dropped from 97 in the 22-week period in 1976 to 67 one year later, he said.

Daly City Police Lt. Tom Culley said he had not evaluated Pavellas' report, but the department supplies some statistics to the Anti-Crime League.

Culley said crime is down in the areas and said neighborhoods which have "watch programs" generally show decreases in such crimes as burglary.

He said, however, that police and the citizen-based CAPTURE organization also have increased efforts there, along with the Anti-Crime League.

The Anti-Crime League, which opened its office at 101 Acton St. in September, has received about $22,000 in funding from Daly City's Housing and Urban Development monies and the San Francisco Foundation.

It has stressed neighborhood awareness as a means of stopping residential burglaries. Members are asked to photograph out-of-the-ordinary cars and people seen on streets in the neighborhoods covered by the league.

Members also are instructed in the use of compressed air whistles for personal safety, Pavellas said.

Not one member of the league has been hit by crime since the prorgram began, he added.

Samuel Chandler

From a school in Umtali in the heart of troubled Rhodesia in Africa comes a piece of literature that is making its way around the world.

The Rhodesian Creed speaks of the dignity sought by the creditworthy youth of our age of social upheaval.

"I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon if I can."

"I seek opportunity, not security."

"I do not wish to be a citizen humbled and dulled by having the state look after me."

"I want to take calculated risk, to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed."

"I refuse to barter incentive for a dole."

"I prefer the challenge of life to the guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of Utopia."

"I will not trade my freedom for charity, nor my dignity for a handout."

"It is my heritage to think and act for myself, enjoy the benefits of my creation, and to face the world boldly and say — 'This I have done!'"

UPON READING the Rhodesian Creed, a youthful American named Dick Davis wrote: "I grew up thinking that my country, the United States, was the greatest nation in all the world. There was no question also, but what Americans were the best people — our ideals were the highest, our thoughts the noblest and our methods were the purest. I am sorry to say, social upheavals and a greater awareness of our own and the rest of the world's citizenry have dimmed that view. In these days of moral decay, of trends toward more and more pay for less and less work, and of demands for guaranteed security it would pay us to ponder over the lofty thoughts of the Rhodesian Creed . . . and think of all the current American problems that could be eliminated by a return to these principles."

AFTER INTERVIEWING hundreds who were caught in the riots of the 1960's and 1970's, Dr. Will Herberg wrote for the National Review that the great mass of American people — black or white — "want what decent people everywhere want: to make a living, raise a family, bring up their children as good citizens, with better advantages than they themselves had."

Dr. Herberg calls this an American desire; the Rhodesian Creed shows that it is a dream shared by people in every nation. As Dr. Herberg wrote, there is a steady path of decency and self-government that leads to a more exhilarating life than the "punks, hoodlums and rioters" will ever know.

THIS PATH of decency was described by Sidney Lanier in his "The Centennial Mediation of Columbia."

"Long as thine Art shall love true love,
Long as thy Science truth shall know,
Long as thine Eagle harms no Dove,
Long as they law by law shall grow,
Long as thy God is God above,
Thy brother every man below,
So long, dear Land of all my love,
Thy name shall shine, thy fame shall grow!"

Bikes, trikes, toys or usable parts may be dropped at any Daly City fire station. Cash contributions may be sent to "Operation Santa Claus," 313-90th St., Daly City 94015.

RECENT SPEAKER

Laguna Salada's Pitto Ranch

Abandoned Site Is a Headache

By TERRY DAVENPORT

When trustees in the Laguna Salada Union School District were advised last week that they probably will have to close seven of their 15 schools, one trustee stressed that the district should avoid ending up with another Pitto Ranch.

Purchased in 1963 as a potential school site, the 43-acre Pitto Ranch has become a headache. Its only value to the district is as a storage area for materials.

After the state began requiring school districts to pay a penalty tax on their unused property, Laguna Salada began seeking grant money to begin an environmental education project on the grounds, which are located in a rustic portion of Pacifica's San Pedro Valley.

All of its grant applications have been rejected for the past three years.

When local 4-H Club members asked in 1975 if they could run a farm on the land, their request was granted. Using the ranch for educational purposes excuses the district from paying about $4,000 in taxes every year.

This fall, chickens were stomped to death, rabbits were crowded into hutches so that they smothered, sheep bore bruises from being ridden, fences were torn down and the garden was destroyed.

One fat goose destined for this year's San Mateo County Fair had its wing broken. The wing had to be amputated; the goose never made it to the fair.

Connie Sabin, who heads the 4-H farm committee, said 4-Hers felt they were in a state of war.

"We had one kid on the hill shooting with a .22 at us," she explained.

A 4-H team leader, Bob Plaskon, wrote an angry letter to the district's Board of Trustees, asking them to take action. "You may be giving us the property, but your responsibility does not end there," Plaskon wrote.

He pointed out that the rundown condition of the two buildings on the site encouraged vandals to destroy them further.

In response, Laguna Salada trustees installed a security system and advertised for a caretaker to live in a mobile home, rent-free, on the Pitto Ranch. The district agreed to provide utilities and a sewer hookup, but the caretaker is expected to furnish the trailer.

Superintendent James Brien said he is interviewing a handful of people who have expressed interest in living on the ranch and will report to the board in early January.

If 62-year-old Josephine Pitto had her way, she still would be living on the ranch. The school district used the eminent domain process to evict her from the farm house in 1962, when it appeared the district would need to build another school to accommodate the area's swelling population. Mrs. Pitto now lives in San Francisco.

Her husband, Anthony Pitto, bought the ranch and its surrounding acreage in 1942. He farmed the land, raised cattle and horses and had a prosperous fruit grove on it.

He purchased the land from the Hibernia Bank, which foreclosed on its previous owner in the late 1930s. His son, Louis, said farmers who used to work the land made moonshine there during Prohibition.

If the Laguna Salada district receives state or federal money for its conservation education project, some of the original glory of the Pitto Ranch will be restored.

The ranch would blossom into an outdoor classroom, where students would learn about nature by conducting experiments with the local flora and fauna.

A trail would be carved through the property. Along this path would be stations where students would sample the air, water and soil and see unusual geological formations.

Projects envisioned include identification of wildlife in the area, study of the effects of chemicals and natural diseases on plants, farming and even basic carpentry skills.

In addition to Laguna Salada students, the program would involve pupils from Jefferson Union High School District and Skyline College. Instead of learning solely from teachers and textbooks, they would learn from one another.

Meanwhile, the 4-H farm would continue to operate in their midst.

Laguna Salada has high hopes of obtaining funding for the projects. Assistant Superintendent Marvin Morganti said the plan nearly was funded last year; the state funded 21 projects and Laguna Salada's came in 24th.

The state has earmarked $240,000 for environmental education. The money comes from personalized vehicle license plates.

Since the largest project funded last year cost $50,000, the district scaled down its original proposal from a $70,250 project to a $48,612 plan when it applied for the state grant this year.

Laguna Salada also intends to apply for a federal grant for environmental education, although its application was turned down last year.

If neither grant is awarded to the district this year, Brien said trustees may decide to sell the Pitto Ranch. That would solve the district's problems with the ranch, but it would create a new problem for the 4-H Club, which would have to find a new place for its farm.

However, the last thing the district wants is another school site to sell. It's been trying to sell two others for the better part of this year. Due to declining enrollment, it may have to sell seven more.

Subs Find Their Teaching Jobs Frustrating

No Security for Substitute, Some Discover

By JANET PARKER

There's one kind of teacher in San Mateo County who gets no benefits, has no job security and can't negotiate for a higher salary.

He doesn't even know if he's going to work until after the sun is already rising.

About 400 persons by most estimates are signed up in San Mateo County to work as substitute teachers in the public schools. Some are former full-time teachers laid off in the wake of declining enrollment. Others are young, recent college graduates who have been unable to find regular jobs. Still others have taken a leave from full-time teaching to work on a higher degree.

But, in most cases, substitute teaching is an attempt to contribute to the family income. Despite the loyal legion of subs in the county's schools, many find their work frustrating.

"You're in a strange place," said Richard Cassioli of Daly City. "You have no idea of the process that's going on in that organization — no idea of where the rooms are, who the students are or when the bells ring. It's sink or swim."

"There's a general mental stress from never knowing what you are going into, where you are going or if you are going," said a Sequoia Unified School District substitute, Margaret Bowles.

"If there are troublemakers in a class, the advent of a substitute brings out their worst," she added.

According to many teachers, the role of the substitute in recent years has changed. The substitute once was a temporary sideline or a sure stepping stone to a full-time job. Not so anymore, they say.

"A lot of our substitutes are teachers who can't find a job," said Glenna O'Violet, the Sequoia district teacher union leader. It's no longer the case that substitute teachers are people who want to work part-time and turn down opportunities for full-time jobs when they do come along.

More and more persons are seeking teaching jobs at a time when there are fewer of them, according to Maxie O'Rourke, a Jefferson Union High School District substitute. As a result, she said, there are going to be a larger number of teachers subbing for a longer time.

"There's really a vested interest now," she said. "One of the ways to get a job is to get yourself known. The subbing job has become very important."

But, many say it's impossible to make a living on a substitute's salary. A day's wage in San Mateo County ranges from a low of $30 a day in districts including Millbrae, San Carlos, Cabrillo and Woodside, to a top of $39.15 in the Sequoia Union High School District.

San Francisco School District pays its substitutes $44 a day. Pay for long-term substitutes — teachers who are assigned to the classroom for about two weeks or longer — is from $3 to $5 a day more.

ON CALL

Mike Hoover, San Mateo City Schools teacher union president, said substitutes have all the responsibilities of a regular teacher after three or four days when the prepared lesson plan is exhausted.

"A substitute is required to know curricula from kindergarten through the eighth grade," Hoover said. "They have to have a vast array of information at their fingertips. Sometimes their job is more difficult than the regular classroom teacher's."

Cassioli is a San Francisco teacher on sabbatical and subbing in school districts here to gain a different teaching perspective.

"I've been shocked," Cassioli said. "When I think of people going and working at that for $30 a day, it's absurd."

"There's a lack of professionality towards the substitute teacher," Cassioli said he's found. Usually, he said, a sub is called at the last minute and told only at which school he or she will be working.

Most lesson plans provided for the substitute are dictatorial and allow the substitute little chance for creativity, he added.

"Teachers realize a substitute is necessary but they resent the sub being there in their domain," he said. One woodshop teacher left him explicit instructions not to become involved in any laboratory teaching straying from the text — even though his own background is in that field.

Most disturbing, said Mrs. Bowles, is that substitutes are entitled to not one fringe benefit — no health plan, no sick days, no job security and no insurance.

"The salary could not possibly support a family," Mrs. Bowles added. That's why, she noted, there are few males in the substitute field. Another substitute pointed out many male teachers out of work will resort to less stimulating, physical work that pays well rather than substitute teach.

That's why about 50 substitutes in the Jefferson Union High School District are seeking the right to form a bargaining unit and negotiate with the district for a contract.

A state Educational Employment Relations Board hearing officer has ruled that substitutes do have that right.

However, the district is appealing that decision to the board itself. If that ruling — nearly identical to cases in Palo Alto and Marin County — is upheld, it would mean that substitute teachers throughout California would have the right to organize and negotiate with their boards of trustees.

JUHSD Superintendent Floyd Gonella argues that it would be awkward and impractical to negotiate with substitutes. Substitutes, he said, are not regular employees of the district. They may be working in three or four districts at one time. They have no commitment to the district in time, activities and responsiblity, he claimed.

"I don't see how a day-by-day, hour-to-hour substitute who works in two or three districts can be placed in a negotiating situation," Gonella said.

It's "virtually impossible" for a substitute to commit himself to one district if that substitute is truly interested in making a living, he said. A sub might work one week in one district and not be called again for several weeks.

The district argued in its case that substitutes are not technically "employees" of the district. But, the EERB hearing officer, Gerald Becker, ruled that a person does not need to have a written contract with a school district to be an employee.

Another administrator, Associate Superintendent Robert Rottman of San Bruno, pointed out there is no obligation on the part of the substitute or the district. The district doesn't have to call that sub and the sub doesn't have to work when he is called.

He added there are times when the district has no choice but to call a person who is only average or below average as a teacher, simply because the first-choice substitutes are unavailable.

It's true, he said, that with the declining job market, subbing has become a semi-permanent occupation for some.

"It's only natural that administrators and boards with enough problems and time committed to negotiations would be opposed to substitutes organizing, too," Rottman added.

Mrs. O'Rourke, who organized the JUHSD substitutes, pointed out that districts find substitutes worth as much as $100 a day when regular teachers go on strike.

"It's very depressing for substitutes who work all year to see when a strike occurs that all of a sudden we're very valuable," she said.

She noted that there are many unions, including electricians and plumbers, in which employees work for several employers at a time and still negotiate for their salaries and fringe benefits.

Even if EERB upholds the substitute decision, Regional Officer Jim Tamm doesn't envision a mass of substitute bargaining groups. Subs are simply a very difficult group to organize, he said.

Mrs. O'Rourke insists substitutes are aware of the need for representation to improve their working conditions.

"We are more than babysitters," Mrs. O'Rourke said. "We are held responsible for everything that goes on in a classroom."

Districts are only concerned that collective bargaining rights for subs will end up costing the district more money and requiring more book work, she said.

"I can recall the difficulties of working as a substitute," Gonella said. "But, when it comes down to it, there is a commitment that must be made on the part of a negotiating union. You can't have an allegiance to five different districts."

D.C. Child Health Clinic to Move

On Jan. 19, the Child Health Conferences, presently held at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, 60 Wellington Ave., Daly City, will move to the Daly City Community Service Center, 6794 Mission St.

The free clinic, operated by the San Mateo County Department of Public Health, is open to any child up to seven years of age, who lacks the care usually provided by private pediatricians. The clinic is held the third Thursday of every month. Appointments are necessary. The number to call is 877-5396.

Among the services provided are physical assessments which consist of a physical examination; hearing, blood and urine tests; counseling on growth and development; child care and nutrition.

In addition to the Health Conference, immunization clinics will be held the same day from 8:45 to 9:15 a.m. at the Daly City Community Service Center. These are set up to provide immunizations against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and measles — shots now required for all children entering California Schools starting with the spring term. Pre-school and school age children are eligible. There is no charge, and no appointment is necessary.

For information call 877-5396.

French Cook In D.C.

Josephine Araldo, 82, a San Francisco practitioner of French cookery, will autograph copies of her new book, "Cooking with Josephine," from 12 to 2 p.m. Monday at B. Dalton Booksellers, 26 Serramonte Center, Daly City.

In her new cookbook, she tells of her experiences at the famed Cordon Bleu school for master chefs in Paris where she was the favorite pupil of the illustrious head, Henri-Paul Pellaprat; she tells amusing anecdotes of her years as chef with such discriminating dignitaries as Isadora Duncan, Lily Pons and other diplomats and society leaders in France and San Francisco.

She includes 250 of her favorite recipes in the book, emphasizing the thrifty use of everything edible. She is as well-known for her wit and exuberance as for her ability to turn leftovers into haute cuisine. She told an interviewer once that when an employer of hers commented one morning, "Ah, Josephine, you certainly put your hands a lot into my food when you are preparing it;" she replied, "Ah, Madame, I am sorry, but it is too difficult to use my feet."

Also present at the autographing will be her husband of 52 years, "my gigolo, Charles," to whom the book is dedicated.

Broadmoor Yule Concert

A concert of Christmas music will be sung this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. by the choirs of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 - 87th Street, Daly City. This is followed by refreshments and carol singing in the church social hall. Infant care is provided during the concert. The choir directors are Delmar Severy and Jill Harder. The organist is Charles Gammon.

The 10 a.m. Sunday morning service has the Christmas Advent theme with a sermon on the subject "What Do You See at Bethlehem?'' Sunday school is held for those of three years thru junior high age. Infant care is provided with adult leaders.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

I realize that we are all spinning like tops in the rush of the Christmas shopping, wrapping and mailing, but somewhere we have to stop mid-spin and do some Christmas baking.

This first recipe comes from a cookbook compiled by the ladies of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Ogden, Utah. A good cook, Lorrayne Page, who has shared many recipes with us, now resides in Ogden and sent me a copy of this cookbook.

7-UP HOLIDAY BANANA BREAD

- 2 cups shifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon each baking soda and baking powder
- ½ cup margarine
- 1 cup sugar (see note at end of recipe)
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup mashed bananas
- ½ cup seven-up
- ½ cup each, chopped dates, nuts and candied red cherries.

Cream the half cup margarine and one cup sugar. Add the two eggs. Sift together the two cups flour, fourth teaspoon salt and one teaspoon each baking soda and baking powder. Add to creamed mixture, alternately with the half cup seven-up. Fold in the nuts and fruits. Can be baked in greased loaf pan, 9x5x2 inches, or cans. (Cans should be well greased and filled half full.) Bake loaves about 50 minutes in 350-degree oven, and cans about 40 minutes at same temperature.

Note: I baked this recipe twice. The first time I used the one cup sugar as called for in the recipe. It was delicious. The second time I used one-half cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar. It was equally delicious. So let your sweet tooth be your guide.

This rich rum cake would make a delicious dessert for a pre-Christmas party, a Christmas party, New Year's party or just anytime you want to serve an attractive and tasty treat.

RUM CAKE

- 1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
- 1 package (2-layer size) yellow cake mix
- 1 package (4-serving size) Vanilla Flavor Instant Pudding and Pie Filling
- 4 eggs
- ½ cup cold water
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- ½ cup dark rum (80 proof)

Sprinkle the one cup chopped nuts over bottom of greased and floured 10-inch tube pan or bundt pan. Combine the cake mix, pudding mix, four eggs, one half cup each cold water, oil and rum in large mixer bowl. Blend; then beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Pour into pan. Bake at 325-degrees for 60 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly pressed. Cool in pan 15 minutes.

GLAZE

- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup water
- ½ cup dark rum

Combine the one cup sugar, half cup butter and fourth cup water in saucepan. Bring to boil; boil five minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in the half cup dark rum and bring just to a boil. Remove cake from pan onto plate; prick with cake tester. Spoon warm glaze over warm cake. You may garnish with halved pecans or walnuts if you desire.

SSF Puts 'Giant' Police Facility Lease-Purchase Proposal on Ballot

By BILL HURSCHMANN

Voters in South San Francisco will be asked March 7 to approve a tax override to allow the city to buy the Value Giant building in the Buri Buri Shopping Center and turn it into a new police facility.

City councilmen Wednesday night decided to put a 20-year lease-purchase agreement on the March municipal ballot, rather than go after an eight-year, short-term note proposal.

At the same time, the council agreed to pick up the option on the Value Giant building, at a cost of $5,000 per month, to make sure it wil be available if the voters approve the measure.

The project, if approved, would cost the city some $4 million. Out of that, the two largest expenditures would be for the building itself, $1.41 million, and for remodeling for police use, $1.49 million. The city also hopes to house its Park and Recreation Department (now in leased quarters) in the facility and to provide for senior citizen classes within it.

The only suggestion by City Manager Walter Birkelo that the council rejected was a bid to move the Buri Buri fire station and the paramedic operation into the facility, and sell the existing fire station for $80,000.

Councilman Richard Battaglia sought to have the council pare $125,000 from a total expenditure of $225,000 for remodeling of the Value Giant building's exterior, but his motion died for lack of a second.

If the voters approve the measure, it would authorize a tax override of five cents per $100 of assessed valuation. In real terms, the override would cost a taxpayer with an $80,000 home a maximum of $10 per year for 20 years, city officials noted.

At an earlier study session, councilmen had discussed the possibility of locating the council chambers in the former Value Giant building. However, that possibility was rejected by council because of its additional cost. The council now meets in the auditorium of the West Orange Avenue Library.

Voters approval of the project will authorize the borrowing of about $2.3 million of the $4 million total cost. The city would make up the difference through the sale of some city-owned surplus properties and through the use of nearly $500,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

The measure would need aproval of a simple majority of the voters.

The council also authorized City Manager Birkelo to prepare the ballot argument in favor of the measure.

City Clerk John Noonan was instructed to post notice of the council's intent to present the matter to voters, to allow opponents time to file arguments in opposition to it.

Mac Davis Recalls Humorous Memories

MAC DAVIS, one of contemporary music's most successful composers and performers, brings his wit and pop and country hits to HARRAH'S TAHOE Wednesday night for a two-week engagement in the South Shore Room. Comedian SKIP STEPHENSON opens the twice nightly shows through Dec. 27, with musical backing by the BRIAN FARNON ORCHESTRA . . . Recording artist NEIL SEDAKA, one of the few performers who can do (and does) an entire show of his own compositions, continues his engagement in the Headliner Room of HARRAH'S RENO, through Dec. 21. Also on the showbill is Comedian MIKE NEUN . . . One of the busiest restaurants in the Sacramento area in the COLONY KITCHEN, located in Woodland at the West Street Exit and Interstate 5. In the seven months that Manager RON HOCKENSMITH has been in charge, he has racked up an impressive record. A recent added attraction for those treking to South Lake Tahoe is BARNEY'S coupons, which are free for the taking in the lobby of the restaurant . . . The "Night Owl" menu featured in the Le Cafe, RAMADA INN, Millbrae, offers round-the-clock favorites. Breakfast is served from 6 to 11:30 a.m. And wait until you get a load of their desserts. Would you believe a choice of ten? . . . Recording artist AL MARTINO, who portrayed Don Corleone's godson, singer Johnny Fontaine, in the Godfather film, will open Dec. 22 in the FAIRMONT Hotel's Venetian Room for a two-week engagement.

A Gambler Could Choke on These Odds

Le Pacini

A football team has a 24-0 lead with just a little over a quarter remaining in the game. The opposition, which doesn't have an explosive offense even at its best, is playing with a third-string rookie quarterback in the snow; an element which is not conducive to scoring at all, let alone quick scores. Additionally, the team which is ahead 24-0 is the second best defensive team in all of professional football, and to make it even better, they are best of all on pass defense, and of course the enemy MUST pass in such a situation.

Now, even if the other team were playing with its regular QB, who is, say, for the sake of argument, the best career passer in pro history; even if the weather were perfect; and even if the team with the lead were the WORST defensive team in the league, it would seem that the odds would be something like 500-1 for the team with the lead to blow it. But with the former rather than the latter circumstances, the odds would probably be more like 10,000-1 against losing the game.

Now if that did happen, it would be pathetic, wouldn't it?

******

If you didn't already know it, that nationally televised NCAA Division II semifinal between UC-Davis and Lehigh had a definite local flavor.

Davis' head coach, of course, is Jimmy Sochor, who at one time held every San Francisco State passing and total offense record on the books. His brother, Johnny, is a math teacher and coach at Jefferson High in Daly City.

The Sochors were two of the finest all-around athletes ever to come out of Washington High School in San Francisco, though their forte was football. Johnny was one of the Eagles' all-time best running backs, which is saying a lot, considering that a pretty fair running back named Ollie Matson also matriculated at Washington.

Both were All-Far Western Conference players (in fact, Jimmy made Little-All Coast and Little All-America mention), and Johnny later went on to make All-Army.

Jim now is prominently mentioned as a leading candidate for head coaching jobs at Cal and Dartmouth. Last year he was given firm offers by Cornell and the Raiders, who wanted him badly as offensive coordinator. There have been and will undoubtedly be other big-time offers, but it looks like Jim will stay where he is for at least the near future.

And why shouldn't he? At Davis, which has a country club atmosphere, he's revered by his players, students, alumni and faculty. There's virtually no pressure to win, and even should he be fired as head coach he has a job for life, because he's a fully tenured college professor with a Ph.D.

Jimmy Sochor has it made . . . and so does the football program at Davis.

****

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Hey, paisans, we should all be rooting for the Chicago Bears. It's the only team in the NFL that can field two Italians in the backfield at the same time — Bob Avellini at QB, Johnny Musso running. Well, actually, the Rams can do it, too, if John Cappelletti is running and rookie third stringer Vince Ferragamo is at QB. But who wants to root for the Rams?

******

USF is the only school which places three players in the Sporting News' list of "All-America basketball prospects." They are, naturally, James Hardy, Winford Boynes and Bill Cartwright.

UCLA places two men, forward David Greenwood and guard Roy Hamilton.

And Don coach Bob Gaillard, incidentally, is the ninth winningest active coach in the U.S. Nevada-Las Vegas' Jerry Tarkanian is tops.

Whenever I worked out my 48 minutes stats for the Warriors when George Johnson was on the club, he came out the NBA's most prolific shot blocker. Now that he's a regualr for Buffalo, he's bearing out what the stats always indicated.

******

Despite the current inflated market, it was still within this decade that a $100,000 a year baseball player was a legitimate super star. And played on yearly contracts. Recently, utility infielder Jack Brohamer, who hit .257 in just 59 games last year with the White Sox (.243 lifetime average), signed with Boston. Over the next three years, he will receive $300,000.

While we're on baseball, some statistics to keep the Hot Stove League stove hot.

The White Sox (no thanks to Brohamer), were shut out only twice all of 1977. It happened to the Yankees only three times. Leaders in that category in the NL were in a three-way tie — Pittsburgh, L.A. and, surprisingly, the Mets, who, next to the A's, had the lowest batting average in the majors and scored fewer runs than ANYBODY. The A's were shut out 12 times, although Toronto led the majors there, with 15.

And while on the A's, it seemed to go unnoticed that they once again led the AL in stolen bases, with 176 and seven men in double figures. Pittsburgh, who led the big leagues, had 260 and eight men in double figures.

Speaking of stolen bases, despite the protestations of Maury Wills' son, Bump, that he isn't the same type of player that his father was, as a rookie he led Texas in stolen bases with 28. And how many bases did papa Wills steal in his rookie year with the Dodgers? Seven.

For what it's worth, Kansas City led the AL pitching staffs in saves with 42, while the Phillies led the majors with 47.

Is it too late to mention that Mike Haas, an Oceana grad, not only made first team on the Coast Conference all-Star soccer team, but was also the league's MVP for the second consecutive year?

And speaking of kicking, do you want to hear a Paul Bunyon story? And no pun — or punt — intended.

We all know that Texas Aggie bare-footed junior Tony Franklin has soccer-kicked more 50-yard-or-longer field goals than anyone in NCAA history, and that against Baylor in 1976 he toed the two longest field goals ever kicked in major college football, for 64 and 65 yards.

That's only the official stuff, however. Aggie coach Steve Sloan claims that he once saw Franklin kick fifteen 65 yarders in a row in warmups. Once, he kicked a conversion out of the stadium and over the roof of the multi-storied athletic offices behind the stadium. Franklin's kicking coach, Donnie Wigginton, says that one day in practice Tony hit 12 of 14 from 65, three straight from 70, and two of five from 75. He once kicked one for 76.

All that and he stands 5-9, weighs 170 and wears only a size 8 shoe.

TAG-END AND PET GRIPE

Those idiot teasers they use on TV sportscasts. "Well, a bombshell in college football today . . . tune in to find out what happened 90 minutes from now!"

And they have the nerve to call themselves newsmen. If these same guys were daily newspaper editors, you'd see banner front page headlines something like this: "Well, a major war broke out today. Turn to page 32, the one with the Levi's ad, to see what nation was blown up."

WHAT A NIGHT IT WAS

Burlingame High's Dave Kohn (43) couldn't improve much on Friday night's performance in the first annual Burlingame Lions Club tournament. He scored 38 points, grabbed 22 rebounds and block four shots as the Panthers downed South San Francisco in an opening-round game. On this play, Kohn and teammate Bob Thompson (23) combine to take rebound from South City's Jerry Selvitella (32).

Ball Bounces Out, Panthers Lose

By DAN BERTELLOTTI

Three agonizing bounces probably kept Burlingame High's basketball team from a championship of the first annual Burlingame Lion's Club Tournament Saturday night.

At worst the bounces kept the host Panthers from forcing the title game against Palo Alto into overtime. The result was a spine-tingling 53-51 win for the Vikings. Mills copped third place with a 71-53 win over South San Francisco.

Palo Alto had taken the lead for good on a 10-foot baseline jumper by Ken Blum with 0:07 left. Burlingame immediately called time out.

The Panthers wanted to get the ball to their fine 6-6 center Dave Kohn. But if he was covered, Matt Kircher had the option to shoot from outside.

Kohn was covered and Kircher shot from outside, just before the buzzer. And the ball bounced not once, twice, but three tantalizing times before falling off.

The game was close throughout, with seven ties and 13 lead changes. Burlingame led 45-42 with 4:25 left. But Paly got two free throws and a three-point-play to lead by one. Kohn hit a follow and Burlingame was on top again with 3:09 left.

Paly went to its clutch player, senior guard Jim Zboraiske, and he hit a bucket and two free throws to put Paly up by three. Vic Reed's 20-foot bomb got Burlingame within one. A Paly free throw made it two.

Reed then tied the game with 0:32 left, making both ends of a bonus free throw.

Burlingame got stellar play from tourney Most Valuable Player Kohn. He tallied 19 points and added 11 rebounds. His two-night totals were 57 points and 33 rebounds. Kurt Kumetat added 10 points, seven rebounds and seven assists. Kumetat, along with Zboraiske and John Parker of Paly, made the all-tourney team.

The Mills-SSF affair was somewhat strange. The Vikings spotted SSF a 2-0 lead and then ran off 18 unanswered points. Mills led 22-9 at the end of one period. The Vikes improved the margin to 41-19 at half.

But the roof almost fell in during the third period. The Warriors started seeing their shots drop (very much like Mills in the opening half), and got back into the game.

South City got within 53-46 on a layup by soph guard Dave Olson with 0:43 left in the third quarter. Frank Kahn's 10-foot bank shot gave Mills a nine-point edge just before the buzzer.

The Vikings then delivered the killer blow, scoring the first eight points of the final stanza. SSF didn't score until 4:59 was left. By then Mills led by 17.

Mills got 16 points from center Marc Reynolds, who was named all-tourney, and 15 from Curt Sorkin. SSF was paced by center George Niauliku with 13.

In Tourney Losses

Mitchell, Mixon Star

SAN FRANCISCO — Both Capuchino and Serramonte high schools went down to defeat on the final night of the Crusader Classic Basketball Tournament Saturday at Riordan High.

But both teams had fine individual performances.

Mike Mitchell had 32 points in Capuchino's 64-61 loss to St. Mary's of Stockton. Cap (3-2) placed fourth in the tournament. Guard Jim Kruidenier added 10 points for the Mustangs.

Junior standout Ricky Mixon was a bright spot in Serramonte's 96-69 loss to Oakland. Mixon tallied 36 points to lead all scorers. Conrad Simon contributed 19 to the Regent attack. Serramonte is now 3-3.

Mitchell and Mixon both made the ten man all-tourney team.

Host Riordan, behind Francisco Pepin's 33 points, stunned a potent Balboa quintet, 86-72, to capture the tournament championship.

Serra Invitational

Westmoor Ousted

By JOHN MURPHY

Aragon High coach Pete Pontacq threw a patchwork lineup against a talented, well-disciplined East Bay power, and the results were inevitable.

Moreau High of Hayward turned back the Dons 63-46 in the finals of the fifth annual Serra Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday night.

Pontacq, whose club has been injury-riddled throughout the pre-season, was forced to bring up two players from Aragon's frosh-soph team in order to round out his tournament roster.

Those two sophomores — guard Ken Powell and forward Gary Williams — played reasonably well, but Aragon lacked the cohesiveness and polish of a close-knit, well-drilled unit.

Moreau took advantage of Aragon's disorganization as it mounted a 26-18 halftime lead. Aragon did not run its set offense well and far too often was content to settle for shots from the perimeter.

The trigger-happy Dons made only nine of 30 field goal attempts in the first half. Still, Aragon managed to stay close with the aid of a scrappy full court zone press, an occasionally effective fast break and some second and third efforts on the offensive boards.

Aragon forward Charles Patton, who led all tournament scorers with 56 points in three games, paced the Dons with 21. Patton was selected to the all-tournament team along with Hillsdale's Bill Knees, Serra's John Baldi, Westmoor's Keith Harband, Moreau guard Dale Baily and Kinman, the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

In their first meeting Serra had devastated Hillsdale inside en route to a 65-48 win. But the Padres had to struggle to win this time around, 61-57.

A big difference in this contest was the absence of Serra pivotman Paul Peterson, who played little more than a quarter due to foul trouble. Peterson had scored eight points in the first period alone before picking up his fourth foul early in the second quarter.

But Serra (3-3) ran its offense reasonably well in the first half (producing several easy baskets) and picked up some scoring punch from junior forward Jim Bruno, taking a 30-22 lead into the locker room

Bill Knees paced Hillsdale's attack as he led all scorers with 21 points. Guard Charlie Brown chipped in 13 points and forward Michael Lawyer had 10. Hillsdale is now 2-4 in non-league play.

Scully topped Serra with 14 points followed by Baldi with 12, Bruno with 11 and Peterson with 10.

Westmoor, behind Keith Harband's 25 points, whipped Carlmont 84-65 in the consolation game. Kevin Dees led Carlmont's attack with 19 points. Westmoor is 2-1, Carlmont 2-2.

In the seventh place game Woodside (1-4) defeated hapless Casa Grande 67-60. Woodside's Mesha Spivey, a 5-10 junior guard, led all scorers with 28 points and guard Brad Blocker added 11 for the Wildcats.

M-A Girls Top Falcs for Crown

Menlo-Atherton High held Crestmoor's girls basketball team to seven points in the first half on the way to a 50-34 win in the championship match of the First Tiger Invitational at Terra Nova High Saturday.

Both teams had reached the finals by registering minor upsets the night before.

"The key to our win tonight was that (Crestmoor's) Carol Rische didn't score her usual bunch of baskets," said M-A coach Pam Wimberly. "Our forwards, Maureen Wilderink and Linda Jones, had great defensive games, and the fact that Carol had a cold spell in the first half didn't hurt us either."

Rische, who had been scoring in the 20's during pre-season play, couldn't buy a basket until she canned a free throw midway through the third quarter. Crestmoor couldn't get her the ball and when she did take a shot it just wouldn't fall.

Crestmoor's guards, hampered by playing without two starters due to schedule conflicts, finally found the Falcon center free in the 3rd quarter at the top of the key, where she began to hit on a variety of jumpers and drives to total a game-high 15 points.

M-A center Shelly Teter, who had 11 points in the game and 24 for the tourney, and was awarded the Most Valuable Player award of the tourney, was especially effective scoring with offensive rebounds.

In the consolation match, Mercy of Burlingame, with center Liz Bruno sinking the last four points on free throws, nosed out host Terra Nova, 37-35.

After Pounding SF State JV's

Skyline Quintet Now 7-0

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco State JV became another routine victim of Skyline College's streaking basketball team, 89-57, Saturday evening — as Trojan guard Ted Scott once again led the onslaught.

That means Skyline will carry a 7-0 record, No. 1 ranking among the state's small community college teams, and a state leading (overall) 16-game win streak into the Cabrillo College tournament Thursday in Aptos at 3 p.m. against De Anza. (Canada is also in the tourney, in the opposite bracket, and opens with host Cabrillo at 7 p.m.)

Scott tallied the first 12 Skyline points Saturday as the Trojans took a 12-4 lead in the early evening preliminary game at San Francisco State. He wound up with 26 points, two steals, three assists and eight rebounds.

The most inspirational player in last season's state tournament (won by Skyline), Scott had some significant stats for his past week's services: 101 points in three games — including 40 against Los Medanos last Wednesday and 36 the previous Saturday night against host De Anza in the title game of the Dons' Festival tourney. The Westmoor grad hit on 44 of 70 field goal attempts in those games, 63 per cent. He's averaging 26 points for the season.

But 6-6 frosh center Brad Levesque from St. Ignatius is Skyline's sharpest shooter with a 71 per cent mark from the field, 45 of 63 — including 10 of 12 for 20 points Saturday.

He and Serramonte grad Reggie Love each grabbed nine rebounds and Jerry McNeil had 12 as Skyline controlled the boards, 47-31, against the Gaters.

The San Bruno home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Chagonjian will be the scene of the holiday party being planned by the Balboa Alumni Board for board members and members of the advisory committee.

Dinner and cocktails will be served and dancing will conclude the evening.

Board members and their guests must have reservations for the party. Those planning to attend are urged to call Mrs. Chagonjian or Board President Mrs. Emily Sumrall immediately.

While the guests are partying some discussion is due on the two upcoming class reunions.

Mrs. Carmen Baron Dillon of Daly City is in charge of the March 18 reunion of the graduating class of 1947. The site of the get-together will be the South San Francisco Elks Club. Members of the Spring 1947 class are asked to contact Mrs. Dillon as soon as possible.

Members of the Spring 1948 graduating class will move a little further down the Peninsula for their reunion. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schnalle of San Bruno are in charge of this party which will be held Feb. 25 at the San Mateo Elks Club.

Next Wednesday is the day selected for the Daly City Senior Citizens Club Christmas luncheon.

Mrs. Louise Buttie, publicity chairperson, reminds everyone that only persons displaying a valid club membership card will be admitted to the Lincoln Park Clubhouse on the day of the luncheon.

Guests, who must all have reservations, must bring their own silverware and dishes.

Mrs. Patti Parks McClain, formerly the director of the Daly City Community Chorus, pens from her Moraga home that she is hopeful that many of her local friends will be watching KRON-TV on Christmas Day when she is scheduled to appear on "Community Circle" relative to her collection of Victorian clothing, which is now on permanent display in the Mansion Hotel in San Francisco.

Hershell Harkins, for 35 years the pastor of the Little Brown Church in Pacifica, was among the honored guests at Tuesday's Christmas party staged by the Pacifica Fifty Plus Club.

The festive dinner party, held at Nick Gust's Rockaway, was a grand occasion to extend birthday wishes to Pastor Harkins who became 90 years old on Sunday. The minister and his bride, Bessie, have been long time members of the Fifty Plus Club and have served the club as chaplains for an extended period of time.

Sunday at 4 p.m. the Campana Ringers will host a Spaghetti dinner in the social hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church. The hand bell group annuallysponsored the benefit to raise money for their spring tour.

The dinner will begin at 5 p.m. immediately following the children's Christmas music program in the sanctuary of the church located on the corner of 19th Ave. and Eucalyptus Dr. in San Francisco.

Among the Peninsula youth taking part will be Gary Borghello, Kelly Heath, Sue Nieser, Sue Sylvester and Edd Tank.

Tickets for the dinner are $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Campana Ringers or at the door on Sunday.

The Westmoor High School pool is closed during the holidays but young swimmers who would like to join the Daly City Dolphins are advised that they can get into shape in January and try out for the club Monday, Jan. 16 at 5 p.m.

Mrs. Rosalind Morino, the club publicity chairperson, explains that any child who can swim two lengths of the pool, any stroke, is qualified for membership.

Call the Daly City Park and Recreation Dept. after the holidays for more information.

Nu Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its first meeting Dec. 1 at the home of Mrs. Larry Gotelli. A cultural program was given on yoga. A Christmas dinner will be held at Brentwood Lodge and an after dinner party at the home of Mrs. William Mairs.

At the party secret sisters will be revealed and the Chapter Princess also will be announced. On Dec. 15 a regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Baccei, with the annual Christmas cookie exchange. The cultural program will be on formal education.

'WONDERLAND'

"Winter Wonderland Ball" is the theme of this year's Westlake Catholic Women's and Men's Club New Year's Eve dinner dance, starting at 8 p.m. Dec. 31 in the Our Lady of Mercy parish hall in Daly City. A sit-down steak dinner will be served at 9 p.m., followed by dancing to the music of Al Borelli. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos at 756-0636. Planners of the event include, left to right, Mrs. Lawrence Ahern, Mrs. George San Pietro, Charles Boerio and Mrs. Robert Brizuela.

BART to Keep Saturday Service

BART has received approval from the California Public Utilities Commission to provide regular Saturday service beginning Jan. 7.

Regular Saturday service will follow directly on the heels of holiday Saturday service, which the transit system is currently providing through December 31, thus maintaining service continuity.

As part of its budget goal for the 1977/78 fiscal year, BART is targeting Sunday service for June 1978.

Meanwhile, the Transit District is providing holiday Saturday service, with trains operating from 8 a.m. to midnight. Until 7 p.m. Saturday, trains operate on 15-minute intervals over three routes — Concord/Daly City, Fremont/Daly City and Richmond/Fremont.

After 7 p.m., the system phases into regular late evening service with trains operating over two routes — Concord/Daly City and Richmond/Fremont at 20-minute intervals. Transfer points are MacArthur, 19th Street and 12th Street City Center stations in Oakland.

Not Guilty Plea Entered

A San Francisco man accused of possessing dangerous drugs and of receiving stolen property has entered a plea of not guilty in Northern District Municipal Court, South San Francisco.

Joel Kenneth Steimle, 21, who gave his address as a hotel in South San Francisco, remains in custody on $10,000 bail. A preliminary hearing has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m., Dec. 23.

Steimle was arrested by San Bruno police Dec. 8 while wandering along El Camino Real across from the San Bruno police headquarters.

According to San Bruno Police Lieutenant Hugh Fraser, Steimle has reportedly been linked to money recovered in connection with a burglary at the El Rancho Inn in Millbrae.

Conquistadors Orientation

The Conquistadors Drum & Bugle Corps will hold an orientation program for prospective new members and their parents Dec. 18.

The corps is seeking interested young people, age 12 to 21, to march with it during the 1978 summer tour, which will include the Pacific Northwest, Rocky Mountains and Canada.

The orientation program, to be held at Westborough Junior High, South San Francisco, beginning at 1 p.m., will include a film presentation and discussion of the corps' program. A panel of experts will tell about the new nationwide enthusiasm for precision competitive performance on the field.

There will be demonstrations by the Conquistadors' bugle, drum, flag and rifle sections.

The corps, with about 90 members now, hopes to expand to 90 or more during the coming weeks to make it a top national contender in 1978.

The Conquistadors are one of about 10 competitive corps in California. It is incorporated as a nonprofit organization dedicated solely to training youth in musical skills, physical fitness, leadership and comradeship.

The corps is open to all interested persons. Instruments, equipment, uniforms and instruction are provided without charge. There is a $3 monthly booster club membership. It is co-sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation Department and Post 4103 of the VFW.

Details can be obtained by calling 952-1419 and asking for the Conquistadors staff, or from manager, Dick Harnett, 583-8995.

Book Selection Process Difficult

Selecting the perfect social studies textbooks has proven to be an impossible task in the Laguna Salada Union School District.

After reading scores of textbooks, hearing presentations from publishers and debating the relative merits of the books, a large committee of parents and teachers offered their recommendations to the board of trustees late this week — only to hear the books criticized.

The committee's choices were the Holt Data Bank for kindergartners with supplemental material for first and second graders, the Silver Burdett Series for students through the sixth grade, the Follett Social Studies series for seventh graders and the Silver Burdett series for eighth graders.

In making their recommendations, the committee said those books far outshine those of other textbook publishers and fall well within the money allotted per student in the district.

Trustee Marilyn Wills observed, in discussing the Silver Burdett books, that the textbooks play up oil and coal as energy sources but neglect solar and nuclear energy. She criticized a reference to "urban renewal" as "Negro removal."

Assistant Superintendent Marvin Morganti pointed out that the books strive to be multi-cultural, but teachers will need to emphasize that aspect even more.

One committee member said he believes the Silver Burdett series neglects some periods of history in favor of teaching broad concepts.

Trustee Curtiss Landers said a lot of material in the series appears to be outdated. For example, he mentioned an income chart in the fourth grade textbook which shows an average high income as $10,938, a middle income of $7,000 and a low income of $5,200.

'911' in Pacifica Soon to Be Free

"All pay telephones throughout Pacifica are being converted to the new Dial-Tone First system which allows "911" emergency calls to be placed without depositing a coin," local Pacific Telephone manager Gwen Wert announced last week.

"Customers will now be able to reach the "911" emergency service, or to dial directory assistance (411) or repair service (611), without depositing a coin," she said.

"We'll start converting the coin phones this month and by the end of January all pay telephones in Pacifica will be converted to the Dial-Tone First system," she explained.

Coin phone users who do not have change will also be able to place credit card or collect calls by dialing the operator.

Pacifica established the "911" universal emergency number in September, 1974, eliminating time wasted during an emergency in looking up numbers or going through the operator.

Wert explained that legislation passed by the state mandates that by the end of 1984 every local public safety agency in California will establish or be part of a "911" system.

"Combining the new Dial-Tone first pay phones with the "911" emergency system, adds Pacifica to the list of cities in California with the most up-to-date emergency calling systems," Wert said.

The Westlake Park Men's Doubles Tennis Team, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Dept., recently played a match against the Serramonte Tennis Club at the Margate Tennis Complex.

Serramonte rallied to win by a close 8-7 margin. Hiroshi Kawanani and Emilo Lugtu (S) defeated Lenny Barreto and Matt Flores (W) 6-4, 6-4; Jeff Morganti and Tim Meza (S) defeated Frank Alizaga and Yancy Wyatt (W) 5-7, 6-1, 6-1; Jim Swanson and Mario Rizzo (W) defeated Don Hohl and Bruce Kading (S) 6-2, 6-1; Manfred Naumann and Yi Lin (W) defeated Trainer Cassidy and Ed Collins (S) 7-6, 6-4; Bill Solar and Bob Lo (S) defeated James Wong and Bill Wong (W) 6-4, 6-4.

A brief meeting of the Westlake Tennis Club has been scheduled for Dec. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., with holiday fan-fare following. All tennis enthusiasts who are Daly City residents are welcome to attend. For more information, please contact Steve Geramoni, community center coordinator, at 992-1894.

For County Assessor

Estes Won't Run Again; Two Enter Race for Job

Veteran San Mateo County Assessor Jack Estes announced Friday he will not seek re-election next June, saying he plans to retire to a walnut farm in the San Joaquin Valley after 38 years of public service.

At the same time, two officials of the Assessor's Office — Tom Collins, chief appraiser for real property, and Roland Giannini, chief appraiser of the Standards Division — declared their candidacy for the $40,622 a year position.

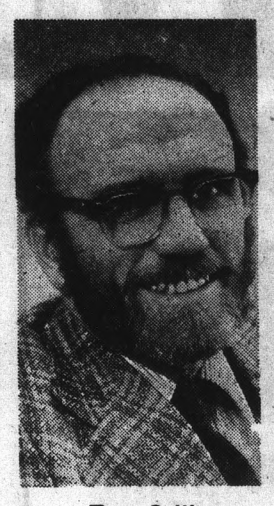
Estes, 57, said that recent attacks on his methods of appraising commercial and industrial property had nothing to do with his decision. He said he had decided to retire as long as two years ago.

"Attacks on the assessor are nothing new," he stated.

Estes, who has served as assessor for 11 years, will leave office when his term expires Jan. 2, 1979.

After that date, Estes said, he will return to his birthplace, Lockeford, where he will operate a 15-acre walnut orchard, purchased by his grandfather.

Jack Estes



Tom Collins

Roland Giannini

Attacks on Estes' appraisal methods have intensified in recent years. Three years ago controversy surfaced over the frequency of which residential and commercial and industrial property were being appraised. Based on a consultant's report, the Board of Supervisors ordered that all property in the county be appraised on a two-year cycle.

Last month the Hillsborough Homeowners Association charged that Estes continues to improperly appraise commercial and industrial property, forcing homeowners to shoulder an unfair property tax burden.

Estes has responded that the homeowners association data is inaccurate.

A county employee for 33 years, Estes rose from a low-level employee in the Controller's Office to assistant assessor before he was elected assessor in 1966. He was re-elected in 1970 and 1974.

Estes is a member of the International Association of Assessing Officers and of the State Association of County Assessors.

Since he joined the county the assessment roll has increased 26 times, he said.

Collins was appointed to his present position by Estes in 1976. He has been an appraiser and administrator in the Assessor's Office for the past 16 years.

A Burlingame resident, Collins said he is a forthright advocate of lowering taxes by "straightforward property tax reform."

Prior to joining the Assessor's Office, the 54-year-old Collins was owner of a personnel agency and a real estate man.

Giannini, who was unaware that Estes and Collins had planned a joint announcement, made little effort to conceal the rivalry of the two Assessor's Office employees.

He promised a tough, vigorous campaign.

The 46-year-old Giannini joined the Assessor's Office in 1959 as a real property appraiser and advanced through the senior and supervisor levels to his present position.

As chief appraiser of the Standards Division, Giannini develops appraisal procedures.

Giannini has spoken at conferences and seminars in areas of property taxation, assessment and appraisal.

Broadmoor Cubs to Carol

Broadmoor Village's Cub Scout Pack 259 will sing Christmas carols when it meets at 8 p.m. Friday at the Broadmoor Community Center at Washington and 87th streets.

Members of the pack, which usually meets at the nearby Garden Village School and will return there for refreshments Friday, will be joined in caroling by friends and family.

The pack, for which Elaine Rodante, outings chairwoman, has planned several trips, has openings for new members. The unit meets every third Friday.

DC Program

Students of Our Lady of Perpetual Help School in Daly City will entertain their families and friends with a Christmas program Thursday.

The program of Christmas songs and skits will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the church at 60 Wellington Ave.
